

Abstract of the Disclosure:

A method is provided for authentication for a multiplicity of services, where each service is called via a service-specific and/or subscriber-specific access authorization, and for 5 authentication in an intelligent network for a multiplicity of IN services. The corresponding apparatus for authentication for a multiplicity of services has an authentication server with a memory and a comparison device that compares an authorization input with a stored access authorization.

WHS:tg - 99p2348F//7/20/2000